After launching her modeling career with Adidas worldwide, Leila Pari moved to Los Angeles to pursue her passion for music. Since then she has written songs for marquee artists including Zane Carney, released her own original EP, and performed along side Andy Grammar, Kamasi Washington, & Rozzi Crane. In 2015 she became sponsored by Gibson Guitars, and performed at the San Diego Fair, NAMM, and as an opening act for Tyler Ward. Her success building a large following on social apps led to interviews featured by Flipagram, Forbes, & KNBC. She partnered with Flipagram & Unilever in 2016 and raised over 480 thousand meals for people in need through a video she created which receiver over 3.5 million views. In October 2016 she spoke at TEDxLA Women. She blogs, has written features for The Love Story Magazine, and has interviewed artists including Too Short & Monica Payne.
