Turning the Clock Back is a site devoted to teaching people to go green, get healthy and simplify their lives one step at a time. People often feel overwhelmed with choices when it comes to living a more healthy and eco-friendly life. As a result, they often give up without trying at all. I want people to realize that we need to take baby steps on the road to going green and getting healthy. I hope that Turning the Clock Back will bring its followers information regarding natural living, cooking from scratch, getting healthier and spending quality time with family.

About Diane Hoffmaster

I am 49 years old and have a bachelor's degree in Microbiology from the University of New Hampshire with a Minor in Health Management and Policy. After graduation, I spent many years working in cancer research, academics, and biotechnology. I am a Nationally Certified Pharmacy Technician working for a nonprofit pharmacy in Georgia. I have a chaotic life that includes work, a husband, 2 college kids, and more pets than I care to admit. I have been blogging professionally for over 10 years and have written for several other sites as well. In my free time, I enjoy reading, exercise, gardening, cooking, and hanging out with my family.
