

Rain on a Tin Roof

FLY YOUR FREAK FLAG

Rain on a Tin Roof is a place where people are encouraged to fly their freak flags. Whether it's with their home decorating, a DIY project or a mishap with a jumpsuit, our people own it regardless of what the "rules" may say. Rain on a Tin Roof has become an empowering place for women (and even a few men!) to embrace what makes them unique.

About Jenna

Jenna is the Resident Freak Flag Flyer at Rain on a Tin Roof. In a nutshell, she's a Rolling Stones meets Conway Twitty Southern Pistol with a dash of Dolly.

What Her Readers Say...

"You are so refreshingly different and make me laugh, which is always needed."

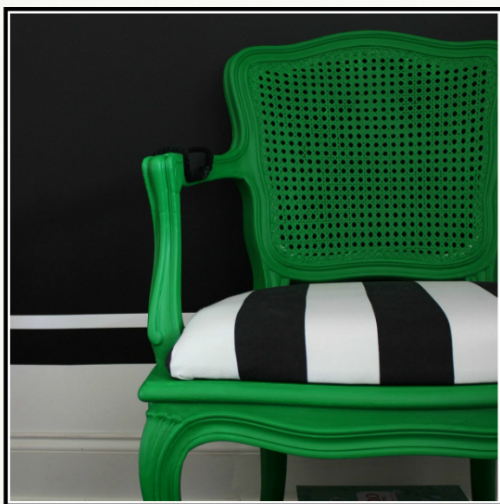

"I love the way you write. It's like you are sitting in a bar talking to me."

"I subscribe to a lot of blogs but yours is the only one I read regularly. I like yours because I feel like I'm talking to a friend. A real person. Not some perfect, made up public persona."

(Comments from 2016 reader survey.)

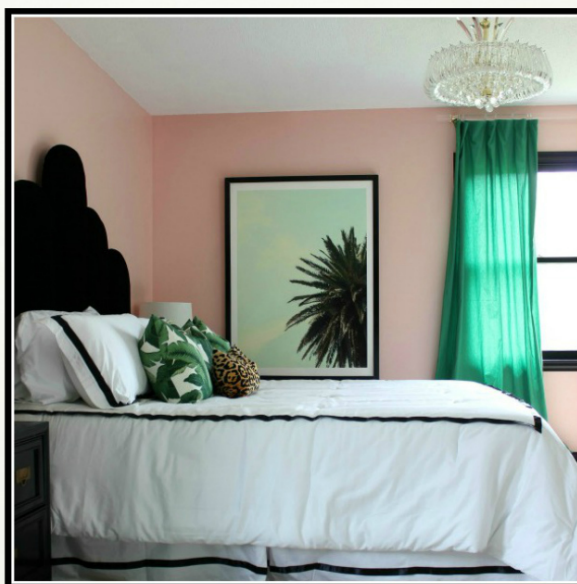

What the Brands Say...

“Jenna is professional and dependable, and frankly, just a dream to work with! Her quirk and humor brings a relatable element to her work that is often hard to capture. She is poised when speaking of brands. I find her writing style is such that she leads her readers on an incredible journey and her brands to a natural and organic growth.”

-Kellie Smith, Velvet Finishes Paint

“What a pleasure it has been working with Jenna the past couple of years! She’s creative as can be and always executes collaborative projects and posts above and beyond. We’ve been consistently happy with the results of working with her.” -Abbey Tiderman, Online Fabric Store
