THE BLOG

From interviews with celebrities to musicians and local cafes, I review and write about anything I love, followed through on all social platforms.

Started off in September 2012 focusing on fashion, my designs and outfits, which soon moved towards food, travel, and lifestyle, with my international background growing up in Bangladesh, Namibia, Vietnam, Netherlands, England, Scotland and now Malta.

Never a dull moment in my life, which influenced me to do so as well.

Terms & Conditions

THE NEED TO KNOWS

I always write detailed, personal to my blogging touch and niche, well-researched posts with unique images and engaging content.

It takes me three to four hours to write a great post, from the very first idea to tweeting it out.

When I review, write about a brand or product, I charge between £40 - £90, per post. This depending on requirements, special requests and time of confirmation and status.

These are the packages and what you get. (Always adjusted) / Always justifiable. I am happy to publish sponsored posts on my site when it involves a brand I really believe my readers could benefit from.

I cannot take responsibly for negative feedback you receive, like counts, comments and various stats, unless requested prior.

I accept press samples to feature on this blog, as long as they're relevant. All gifted items will be marked with an *AD/SPONSOR so readers are aware this is for review purposes. All product reviews are written with 100% honesty and nothing will sway that.

I only do positive articles, if its something I am not keen on or not excited about with any interest, I rather not do the article because (I mean its not nice to slate and I want to be honest!)
