

NACHO AVG BLONDIES

AMY & BRIAN

We are two blondies from Austin, Texas looking to live life above average. Our blog focuses on food, fashion, travel, and fun! We started this adventure in hopes to share our experiences with as many people as possible. Our goal is to connect with our followers and introduce them to new places, products, and experiences that have left us with many long-lasting memories. From the places we go, the food we eat, to the clothing we are currently obsessed with, we share it all!

We meticulously plan everything from the placement of the spoon in our food to the secret beaches we seek out on our sandy adventures. Our goal is to produce exceptional content that not only engages our followers' curiosity, but inspires them to follow in our footsteps and challenges them to be anything but average. We like to showcase the brands we work with to include that mentality.

KAM SWIMWEAR

Amy has been one of the best content creators & influencer's we have worked with. Not only did we see an immediate response from her fan base once posting one of our items, she was always quick to respond to our emails and requests. She took direction from us very well and stayed on brand. We enjoyed working with Amy and we plan to continue to collaborate in the future!

MWWPR

I worked with NachoAvgBlondies on an ice cream campaign that my agency was putting together. Her professionalism shined through as she was always quick to reply, which helped us move our campaign along smoothly and efficiently. It was made clear that Amy took the time to read through the campaign deliverable and key messages. Her bubbly personality and skills made for a great content and exciting campaign. Look forward to working with her again!

PGA TOUR

I had the pleasure of working with Amy as an influencer for the PGA TOUR's World Golf Championships – Dell Technologies Match Play. Amy's coverage was creative, on brand and authentic to her personality. We appreciate her charismatic social media presence and professionalism and would strongly recommend her.
