

Supporting Teachers Everywhere!

About Paul Stevens-Fulbrook and TeacherOfSci.

TeacherOfSci.com was started in April 2108, it's aim is to help support teachers in the three areas where they find life most difficult; teaching strategy, health and well-being and personal finance.

These areas are common pinch points for many teachers across the globe and, whilst there are lots of straight education websites, teacherofsci fills an unfulfilled niche between education website and lifestyle blog.

The goal is to emulate the helpful conversations you may have with teacher friends on a Friday evening over a glass of wine, conversational but supportive with easy to implement advice.

Brand Collaborations:

"Paul is a very friendly and professional person. Working with him was a great experience since he not only does his job very efficiently, but he also cares about you and your goals so that the results can be beneficial for you. He is very open to communicate and discuss anything you wish. I started working with Paul for a simple campaign project but expanded it to more things due to the great experience I had with him and his competence and enthusiasm".
