MY BRAND

It's all inclusive.. like I hope the world will one day be. I have an engaged following of people who predominantly identify as female but not limited to this audience.

I've worked REALLY hard to create a safe space for self expression and a place where people can see themselves represented even though we don't necessarily look the same. As a plus size woman we deal with critics all the time. And I am not shy to address discrimination of any sort and to empower others to teach society how to treat them.

I have a pretty unique style. It changes with my mood and I don't try to box myself into one aesthetic. I love styling myself and showing others that your size shouldn't stop your freedom expression. Nothing should stop that, including hate or disapproval.

I absolutely love sharing new brands for my tribe. Most of them are looking for new places to get lingerie, brands that deliver true inclusive lines and are dedicated to making the plus size experience better and of course beauty!
