

Hi! I'm Raquel

My love for beauty began at a very young age as I watched my mother at her vanity prepping for a night out. I was captivated by her every move and mesmerized by all the products she would use, from makeup to fragrances. I was completely transfixed.

I knew then that I would always want to emulate her and her love of beautiful products.

I am now in my late 40's and blog about beauty every day. Reviewing, testing, and photographing products is my passion. There is just something so alluring about an aesthetically pleasing photo that speaks to me and inspires me on so many levels.

If you share this love then follow me along on my journey as I continue to delve into the beauty chronicles.
