The Blond Travels

Live, work and travel anywhere in the world

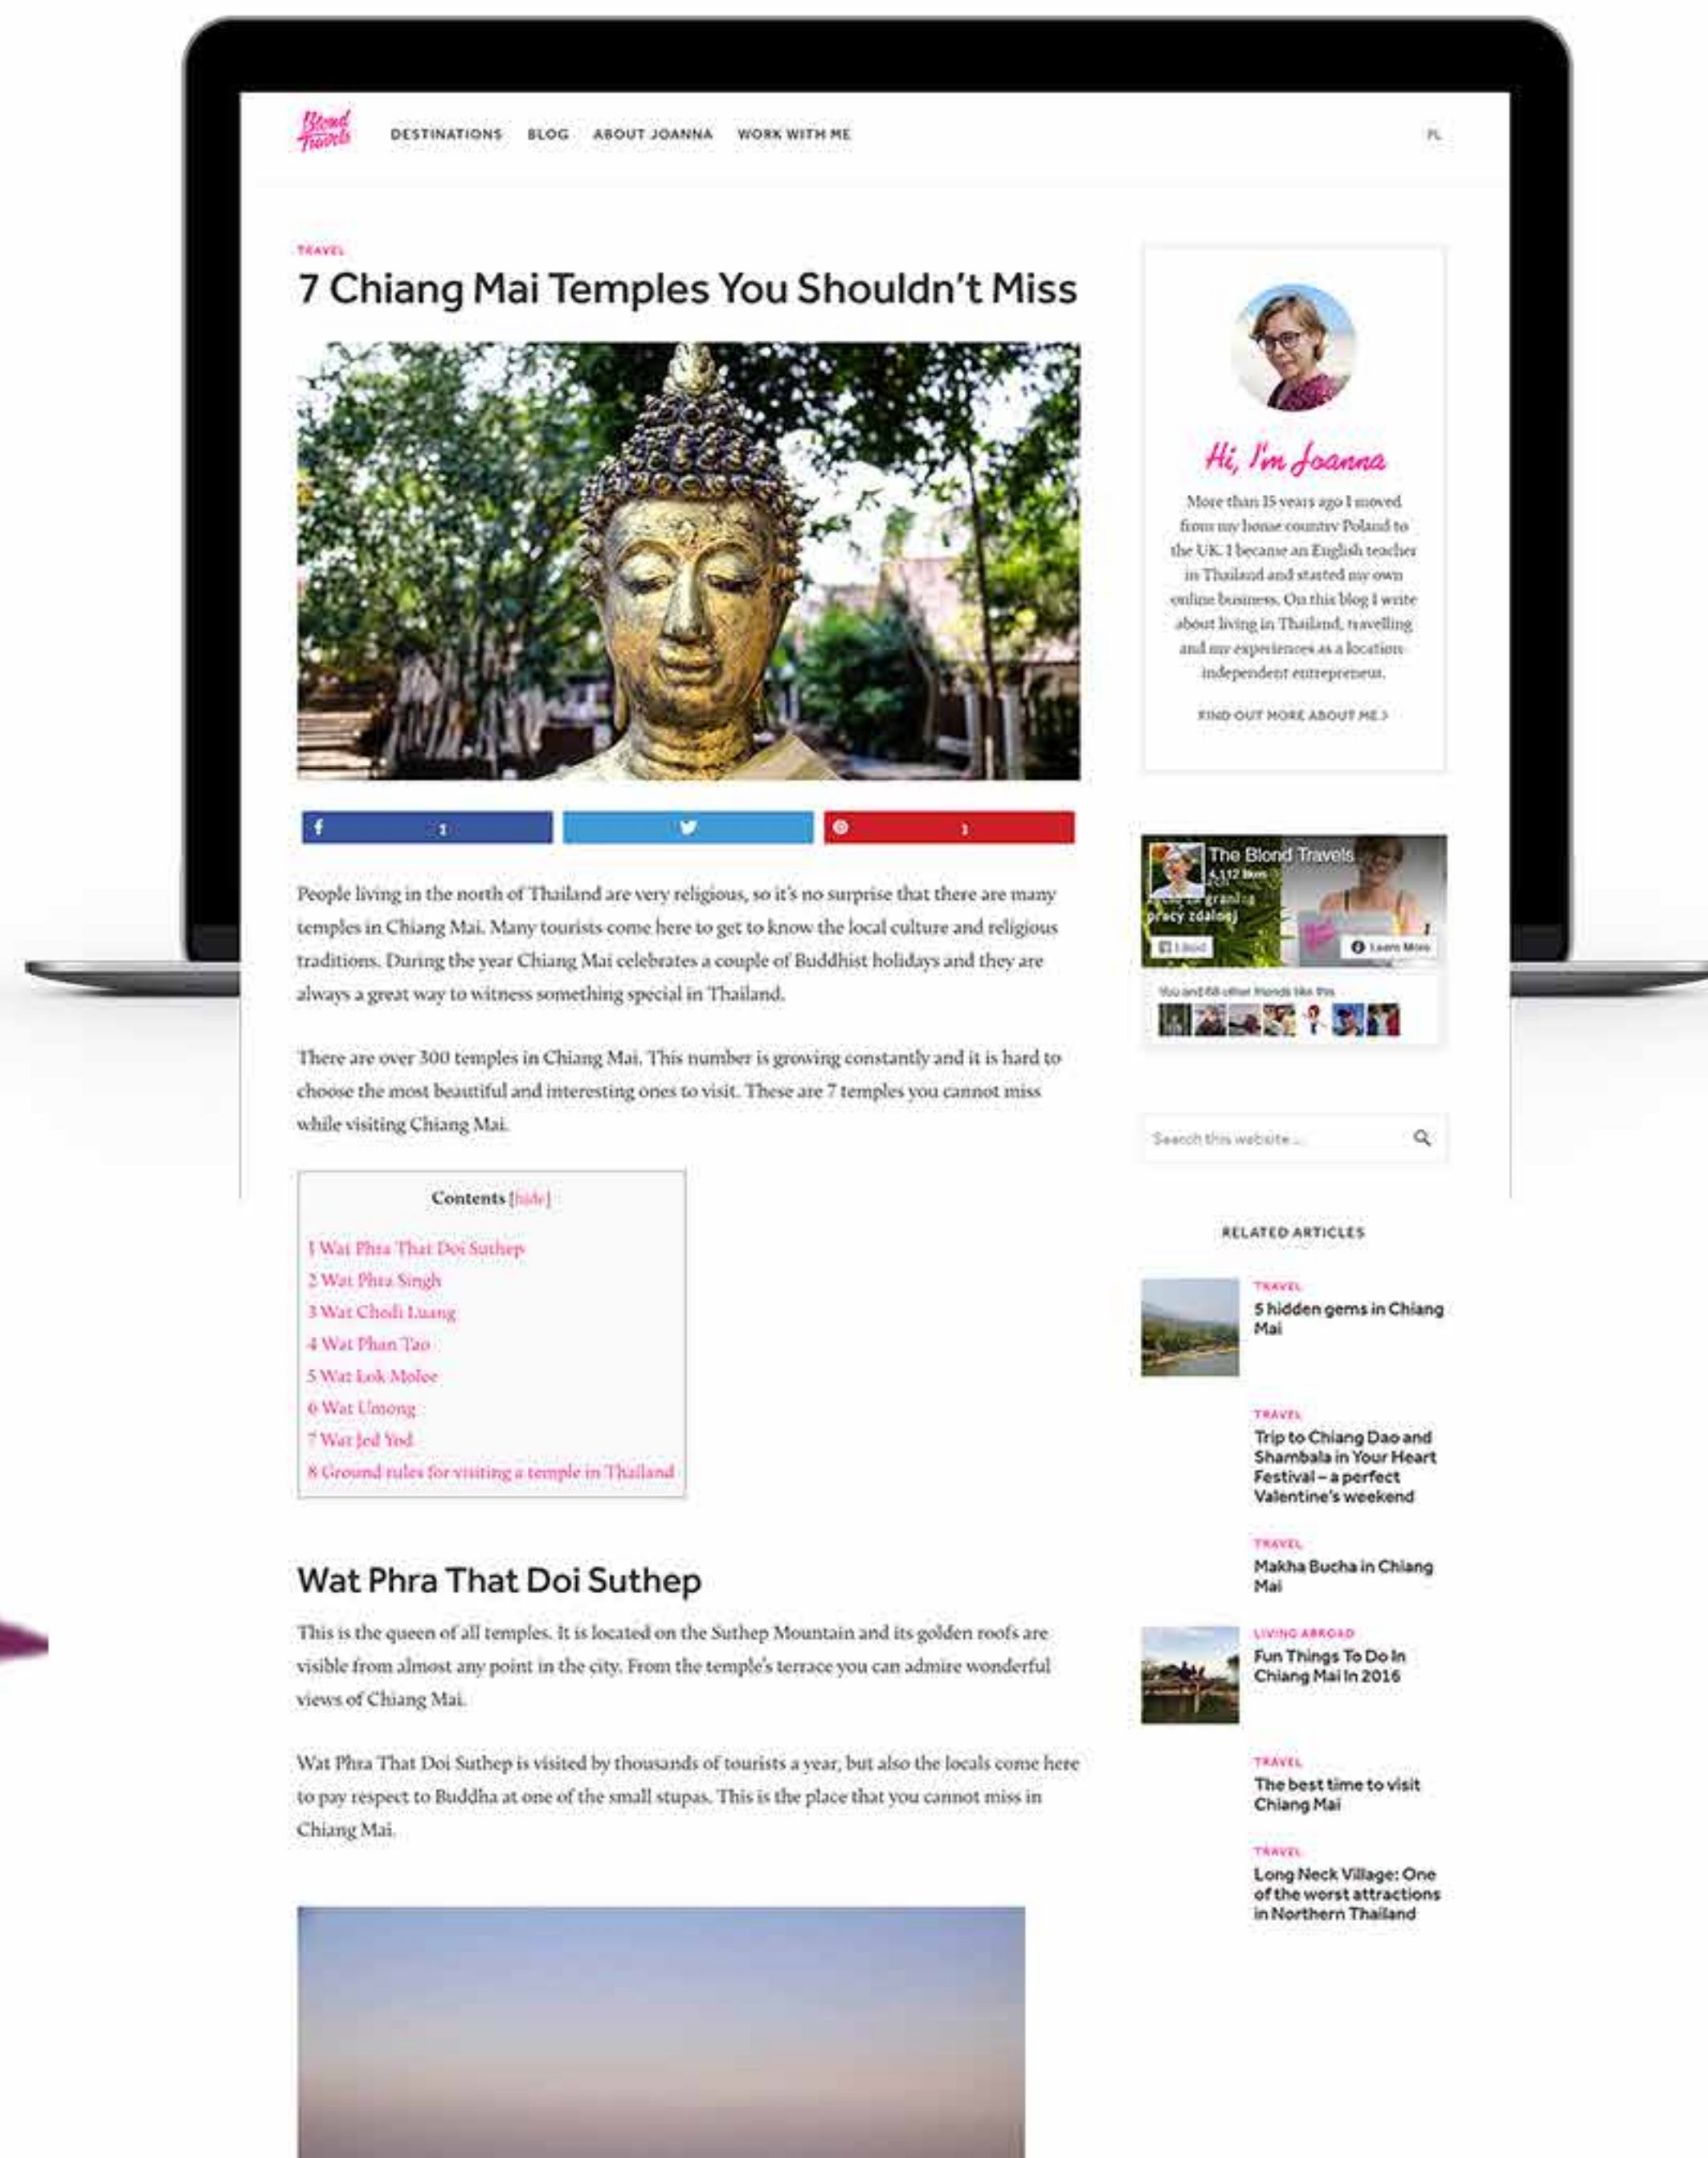

About The Blog

The Blond Travels provides practical, useful and concise information about traveling, living abroad and working remotely. I help and inspire my readers with useful tips about places they want to travel to, or live and work in.

The Blond Travels is one of the most popular blogs about living and working in Thailand as well as the go-to resource for information on online teaching, working remotely and moving abroad.

I work with brands, tourism boards and tour companies to bring the best local information to my readers.

Meet Joanna

I was born and raised in a coastal town in northern Poland before moving to London. I lived and worked in Great Britain for over ten years and then moved to Thailand to become a full time TEFL teacher.

I lived in Chiang Mai, a city in Northern Thailand, and taught English to students at a college while exploring the region and writing about it on my blog. I then moved to Vietnam, where I began my online teaching career.

Today I am living in Portugal trying to explore the country as much as possible. On the blog I write about my experiences and inspire others to change their lives for the better, no matter if they want to move abroad, travel, or they dream about working online.
